

THE TRADITION CONTINUES

As the official helmet partner of Isle of Man TT Races, Arai has once again paid tribute to the longstanding race tradition on the British Island. This latest design for 2014 has been beautifully designed by renowned artist Aldo Drudi, and is a coveted limited production.

Adorned on the front and rear of the helmet are the official TT logos, identifying it as an official product, as well as two large TT logos on either side, styled into sweeping racing stripes accompanying an appropriate checkered flag. Along the top of the helmet, the ancient triskelion logo lays atop the outline of the famous mountain course, balanced by the reminiscent Manx 'Ellan Vannin' on one side, and the translated 'Isle of Man' on the other. These intricacies are accentuated by Arai's beautiful frost finish and a brand new matte metallic red to grab the attention of every collector.

Own your own piece of racing legend with the Arai IOM '14 Corsair-V, but do not wait, they sell out at the speed of the race!
