

New "Kentucky" Kid in town

Known as the Kentucky Kid, Nicky Hayden has been an Arai rider for nearly 20 years and together we have produced nearly as many replica variations. New for 2015 we have the new Nicky-5 design. New but with many familiar styling cues; hidden (well, maybe no so hidden) #69, heavy metal flake metallic, Sword & Shield emblem on back and some colorful camo for those who prefer to be seen even while wearing camo.

Offered on the Corsair-V the new Nicky-5 gives full on racers, track day specialists and street riders who simply want the most out of a helmet something new to brighten their day. Unmatched interior ventilation, excellent aerodynamics with patented adjustable rear air-wing, fully removable, replaceable & adjustable interior comfort padding for incredible micro-fit options, wide eyepoint for excellent peripheral field of view, strong and lightweight shell with a low center of gravity for excellent all day comfort and reduced fatigue.
